

An important note when applying for full membership

Dear nature photographer, thank you for your interest in becoming a full member of the GDT. Please take in account, that this is just possible, if you are already a GDT member.

Within the GDT, the same applies for both types of membership. But only full members will be allowed to use the GDT logo for their public image and marketing as the GDT stands for above-average nature photography. If you are interested in becoming a full member of the GDT, we will assess the quality of your photographic work on the basis of 20 application photographs. You will find the guidelines and recommendations for applying for full membership in the PDF file on the right. Please read that document very carefully!

A short note on process time: We work on a voluntary basis and enjoy it very much. But in addition to our jobs and families, the time set aside for GDT matters is unfortunately limited.

We therefore cannot guarantee that decisions on applications will be made within a set time frame and we will refrain from giving detailed explanations in case of applications that do not meet a minimum standard of photographic skills.

We aim at processing applications with due care within an acceptable period of time and giving applicants a detailed feedback in case of rejection. This takes a lot of time and effort.

In this respect we urge all applicants:

- We apologize that print applications can no longer be accepted due to administrative and technical issues. Applications must be submitted online at www.gdtfoto.de

- Please only apply after carefully reflecting your photographic work self-critically and with the help of other nature photographers, and when you realistically anticipate a positive outcome of your application.
- Please make sure to strictly adhere to the formal requirements laid down here.
- Get in touch with local regional groups and present your images there!

Thank you for your understanding!

Please carefully read the recommendations for applications for full membership prior to submitting your application! Should you still have queries concerning the application process or your current application, please get in touch with us:
